

WIN at a Glance

The Need for WIN

In many nations, women are disadvantaged emotionally, educationally, and economically. Their spiritual talents have often remained unappreciated and underdeveloped. Mobilizing women to win the lost and make disciples will help to dispel the darkness, giving hope to women who face considerable challenges in everyday life.

The WIN Remedy

WIN envisions Christian women, challenged for deeper discipleship, resolved to undertake dynamic, spiritual formation with other women, who in turn will become empowered disciple-makers. They will be connected to other women through a network that will facilitate ongoing training and reports of challenges and victories.

The WIN Challenge

The potential impact of WIN for the Kingdom of God through exponential growth is incalculable. This extensive network will need ongoing support both in prayer and finances. These two elements are the only hurdles for WIN; all other organizational elements are in place to sustain this movement for the glory of God and the advancement of His Kingdom.

Introducing
WIN...

The Women's Impact Network

Meet Meena...

Forced into marriage at 17, Meena's husband divorced her after two years. A wound on her leg would not heal and he suspected leprosy or cancer, which would have rendered her useless to him. Even with the care of doctors her condition worsened and she became bedfast, waiting to die.

A woman evangelist named Sanju came to visit, and told Meena that Jesus had the power to heal her. Meena put her faith in Christ and gradually the wound began to heal, until she was walking and completely well! Her family and many from her village came to Christ because of her testimony. Meena attended training sponsored by Evangelism Resources in Bihar, India, and now she is visiting villages and conducting women's fellowships with more than fifty in attendance.

The WIN Mandate

Meena is not alone, although she may sometimes feel that way. Thousands of women have the passion and the vision to impact their world for Christ, but lack the training and methodology.

The Women's Impact Network will connect these women in groups of four (one leader and three disciples) which will meet weekly for ongoing discipleship, mentoring, and encouragement to engage in Great Commission ministries.

Meena now travels with Sanju, the woman evangelist, to share with villagers her remarkable testimony. WIN will connect women like Meena in a network for further training and encouragement.

WIN Strategy

- Phase One will gather women gifted with leadership skills in groups of 50 for WIN Summit training.
- Phase Two will mobilize each of the 50 to find three women to mentor weekly in a WIN Group.
- Phase Three will launch each of the second-generation women in establishing their own WIN Groups, expanding the network in ever-increasing circles.
